LUDLOW NAMES CHAMBERLAIN
NEW CITY ADMINISTRATOR

Written by Michael Monks, editor & publisher of The River City News

The City of Ludlow hired a new city administrator on Thursday night.

Elishia Chamberlain was unanimously approved upon the recommendation by Mayor Ken Wynn.

Wynn said that after interviewing four candidates he and the department heads all agreed that Chamberlain, who is currently a senior community development specialist with the Northern Kentucky Area Development District, was the best choice.

“She had a lot of knowledge about grants working with the AD District and had a lot of contacts,” Wynn said. “Basically, it felt like she was the best fit.”

The city had been without an administrator since Brian Richmond resigned at the end of April. Wynn and the department heads have had to take on additional responsibilities, a burden worsened by a recent stay in the hospital for Wynn, who suffered bleeding on the brain. It could have been worse. Doctors first thought he suffered an aneurysm.

“I'm perfectly fine now,” he said. “The rest of the staff stepped up.”

Chamberlain will take over the reins soon. The Northern Kentucky University (bachelor's and master's degrees) and Simon Kenton High School graduate is a native of Morning View and lives in Covington's Wallace Woods neighborhood.

"Ludlow is at a very unique position right now with developments coming and Riverfront Commons," she said. "I have a special interest in small cities developing into idyllic places for young professionals to live. They don't have to be in the hustle and bustle of Downtown."

She specializes in human resources functions and Brownfield grants.

“There are major opportunities here and being a part of that seemed really exciting to me," Chamberlain said. "My time at the AD District has been invaluable. They have prepared me to further my career at this point and they have assisted with many of the things the City of Ludlow in the past.”

RESIDENTS AND BUSINESSES ARE ASKED TO DECORATE

Hear ye…Hear ye…let it be known that any resident or business along the 150th celebration parade route (Carneal St. to Elm to Lagoon to Oak and back to Carneal) who decorates their windows or front of property for the weekend of September 19, 20 and 21, will be greatly appreciated. Props and decorations should have a focus on our Ludlow history.

WELCOME TO LHS’ NEW PRINCIPAL

Welcome, Mr. Travis Caudill, our new LHS Principal! He is a great addition to our Panther Family!

For the past sixteen years, he has worked as an educator in the Kenton County School District. He taught World History for eight years at Turkey Foot Middle School and for two years at Twenhofel Middle School before serving as the Assistant Principal at Twenhofel. While teaching, he also enjoyed coaching high school sports at Dixie Heights High School (both baseball and basketball). For several years, he served as the Athletic Director at Turkey Foot.

Learn more about Mr. Caudill on our webpage in his Principal’s Message.

Chapter 8: The World at War

The attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7th, 1941, thrust Americans into another war. Unlike the previous world war which had been concentrated on European battlefields, World War II truly was a global event. Germany’s army under Hitler had already marched into Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland...and threatened to do the same to the rest of Europe. British and Italian forces were in combat in the countries of northern Africa.

But it was the surprise attack by the Japanese on that fateful Sunday morning that forced America into the conflict. Once again, Ludlow men answered the call to arms and marched to battlefields in Europe, Africa, Asia and to the islands of the Pacific.

Those war years were a time of great sacrifice, especially for those serving in the military, but also for Americans at home. Goods such as sugar, coffee, butter and gasoline were rationed. Victory gardens were planted to supplement food shortages. Women went to work in factories to support the war effort. Community scrap drives were organized to collect metal and other materials essential to the war effort. It has been stated that two Civil War cannons, which guarded each entrance to the Veteran’s Memorial Underpass on Elm Street, were confiscated for the cause.

By the time the war ended in 1945, 27 Ludlow men had paid the ultimate price. Those were: Ed Fielding; James Essell; Andy Stewart; Hardin Herrick; Charles Irvin Garrett; William Kleintank; John Keller; Emery Johnson; Raymond Norton; Donald Roe; Roy Allgeyer; Thomas McLaughlin; William Carrie; Vernon Napper; Harry Wagner; Edward Green; Robert Hefner; Howard Henthorn; Robert Kreimborg; Charles Bryan; Albert Creager; Randall Lillard; Frank Kidwell; James Murphy; Howard Betz.

With the use of the atomic bomb in Japan during August of 1945, America not only emerged as the victor, but as the world’s strongest military force. Russia developed their own bomb in the late forties, and escalating threats between the two countries led to a period associated with fallout shelters and the “doomsday clock”.

Perhaps in response to those serious times, entertainment and social events thrived. Television replaced the radio as the source for news and family entertainment in the home.

One television show of 1953 was NBC’s “The Wonderful John Acton”. Although it was the fictional story of an Irish-American family set in Ludlow, Kentucky, the characters and setting of the show closely resembled the real thing.

Churches and organizations flourished in these decades of the 1950’s and ‘60’s. Some of those in Ludlow were: Job’s Daughters; the Order of the Eastern Star; the Masons; the Knights of Columbus; the Ludlow Businessmen’s Association; the White Oak Fellowship Club; the Ludlow Drum & Bugle Corps.; the Catholic Athletic Club; and the Hobo Club.

It was a time of American prosperity. New roads and highways were being built and families could afford to own an automobile. The rapid growth during the “baby boom” years and the appeal of suburban housing led many families to leave the city for new surroundings. Although, Ludlow families left, too, many retain to this day their loyalty to the small town they still consider home.
As the season turns to fall and a new school year begins, we would like to wish all students, athletes, and teachers a successful school year!

Letter From the Superintendent

As our summer days are nearing an end, I find myself getting more excited about the start of the new school year. It is sure to be an excellent one for our students, staff, families, and community.

We have been busy this summer with a number of exciting projects. Lots of construction work has been completed to enhance our facilities and learning environment for our students. As you have likely been reading about in past issues or have seen while walking or driving through town, we installed a new air conditioning and heating system in the high school, we’ve put in a new playground area for our preschool and kindergarten students, and we’ve made some major renovations at our stadium, including building a new field house, building a new concession stand/public restroom building, resurfacing the track, and installing new lighting and sound systems. I am confident our students, staff, families, and community will enjoy these enhancements.

Our district’s “construction zone” will carry over into our focus for the 2014-2015 school year. We want to Build Safe, Respectful, Responsible Students, Classrooms, Schools, and Families. Each school and classroom will work to foster a positive environment where our students can learn and achieve at high levels. We continue to design our “blueprints” to build rigorous lessons that meet the needs of all students, preparing them to be college or career ready upon graduation from high school.

As I have experienced over the past several months, successful construction projects take a lot of effective communication and meetings where all contractors and parties involved discuss and plan together. This is true for our schools too. Our teachers and administrators will enhance their communication strategies so that students and families can be more aware and engaged in activities taking place in our classrooms. At Pantherfest and in the opening weeks of school, you will be introduced to several new ways we’ll be communicating with our students, families, and community. We will be increasing the number of opportunities for our students and families to be involved in our school activities.

Tools are a crucial aspect of any building project. I have been learning about many new tools and gadgets from talking with our architect and contractors. New “tools” will be used in our classrooms too. We continue to update and add new technology for our teachers and students. A new reading program will be used with students in K-12. The program will ensure that students are receiving more individualized reading instruction. Being a proficient reader is an essential life skill that all students will need in their future career.

Our new tool will assist our teachers to improve literacy skills with all students. Another tool we’ll be using in the high school is a new online course program. While some students may take a full course online, most will likely benefit from our teachers using the new resources that it can provide to enhance their lessons and deepen a student’s understanding of a subject.

Our physical construction project may be ending, but our “project” of building better, more effective schools and classrooms is just beginning. After studying the blueprints and plans we’ve been working hard on this summer, I know that we’ll be pleased with the positive results at the end of the new school year. As always, please contact me at 859-261-8210 or mike.borchers@ludlow.kyschools.us if you have any questions or concerns you have.

Sincerely,

Michael Borchers

How Can YOU Help Support Ludlow Students?

We are moving forward with our mission of preparing students to be college and career ready by the time they graduate LHS. We are preparing to enroll even more students next year in dual credit courses through Northern Kentucky University and Gateway Community & Technical College. Students take these college courses while in high school, and they count as both high school and college credit. If students first experience college in the safe, comfortable environment of LHS, with our faculty supporting them, they are more likely to find success and continue in a college education.

This is where you can help. One barrier for many of our students is the financial aspect of college tuition. With the support of the Ludlow Board of Education and local businesses, students are being sponsored to cover the costs of their dual credit tuition and textbooks. For $250.00 you can help provide this unique opportunity to a student at Ludlow High School. A tax-deductible sponsorship can be paid to the Ludlow Education Foundation.

Contact Superintendent Mike Borchers if you are interested in sponsoring an LHS Student: Mike.Borchers@ludlow.kyschools.us or (859) 261-8210.

We thank you for considering assisting us with our mission!

Kids Eat Free!
Ludlow’s Breakfast & Lunch Information

The Ludlow Independent School District is participating in a new program this year that will allow ALL students to receive a FREE breakfast and FREE lunch each day. Students are still permitted to purchase extra meal items, extra drinks, or à la carte items if they choose.

For our school to participate, every family is still asked to complete a home income form. Collecting these forms from all households is not only a requirement for this program, but is necessary for us to continue other funding and grants we receive.

Because students can still purchase extra items, parents can pre-pay on their student’s cafeteria account if they choose. If you prefer to pay in person in the cafeteria, only cash is accepted. If you’d like to go online and pay via credit/debit card, and be able to monitor your child’s spending, you can do that at www.MySchoolBucks.com.

Click on the MENU link on the school’s webpage to check out the monthly menu for breakfasts and lunches.

Breakfast
- Free for all students
- Served daily from 7:15-8:00am
- HS students will be able to get quicker Grab n’ Go breakfasts outside the HS Office area if they choose not to go to the cafeteria

Lunch
- Free for all students
- À la carte snacks for all students cost 50¢
- À la carte drinks for elementary students cost 75¢ (water, 100% fruit juice)
- À la carte drinks for high school students cost $1.25 (water, Gatorade)

We want our students to be healthy! Eating breakfast every day gives students the nutrients and energy they need to perform better academically. Students who eat breakfast daily are able to focus and concentrate more throughout their day. This helps make our students Proficient Panthers!
You're Invited to Celebrate with Us!

Let’s kick off the fall season by rooting together for a Panther victory! All students, parents, families, and community members are invited to attend the annual Tailgate Party. Come and show your Panther Pride between 5:30 and 7:00pm at the practice field on Friday, August 29th.

Admission is $3.00. Any Ludlow Student wearing red and black will get in for FREE! Students 12 years old and younger must be accompanied by an adult.

Thanks to Ludlow’s Family Resource & Youth Service Center and Food Services Program for sponsoring this event!

Lots of Fun!
- Dinner & Drinks
- Face-Painting for Kids (or Adults!)
- Great Music
- Decorate your own Spirit Button
- Raffles for Door Prizes
- Touch-a-Truck for the Kids to Explore
- Cornhole
- Large Inflatable Fun for the Kids
- Cheerleaders will Teach Crowd Cheers
- Performance by the School Band
- Time to Talk with Fellow Neighbors
- Kona Ice will Sell Treats to Cool You Off

The fun will continue after the Tailgate Party! Be sure to head over to the game so that you can be a part of the Grand Opening of the Newly Renovated James Rigney Memorial Stadium. Our Panthers take on the Bracken County Polar Bears at 7:00pm. We invite all families, alumni, and community members to see our upgraded facilities!

Please note that your admission to the Tailgate Party does not include your admission the football game.

As Ludlow, KY anticipates its 150th celebration in September, a few words about its namesake might pique the interest of old time residents as well as city newcomers.

Israel Ludlow (1804-1846), for whom the city is named had an English ancestry, and one can assume that the family name originated from the town in England whose roots can be traced back to the 11th century.

Ludlow, England is located northwest of London near the Welsh border. As the Normans settled in England in the late 11th century, castles were built as defenses against Welsh “raiders”. Ludlow was one such defense, and in time, the town developed around the castle, and became a leading trading center. In the 16th century, it was the administrative locale for the governance of Wales.

Ludlow has prospered to this day and maintains much of its historical charm. It is graced by its impressive castle, St. Laurence Church, one of England’s “Greater Churches”, original medieval streets, and attractive Tudor and Georgian buildings. The well maintained castle is a showcase for annual festivals, including the Medieval Christmas Fayre.

Several streets in Ludlow, KY have English names that would have been familiar to the Israel Ludlow family. Stokesay Street is named after Stokesay, a small village seven miles from Ludlow. This is the site of another castle on the Welsh border, and today is considered the best preserved and finest fortified medieval manor house in England. Ludford Street is named after the Ludford Bridge and small village adjoining Ludlow.

Deverill Street is derived from Hill Deverill in Dinton, Wiltshire, in the south of England. Israel Ludlow’s paternal family tree can be traced back to the early 16th century to a Ludlow family who lived in the area.

As Ludlow prepares for its 150th anniversary during the third weekend of September, Ludlow, England will be holding its annual September Festival of Food and Drink where small food and drink producers from around the region sell their products along with special events, talks, and demonstrations. Both Ludlows have much to celebrate, though to the Ludlow English, the KY Ludlow is still the “young kid on the block”!
